Where to start.

Our clients know that the UK immigration system can be complex, so navigating through the right channel and applying for the right visa is important. This applies to both enterprises and individuals.

So the key questions remain, where to start? Well, in all visa applications, the intention and purpose play a critical pathway to choosing the right visa channel.

In our guide, we will show some of the key elements to choose before you apply for a visa.

Feedbacks to our publications are important. Please do share and let us know.

What to check for:

- Purpose of your travels to the UK.
- If applying for a temporary visa, evidence of your family & private life in country of return to be provided.
- Check if you meet the financial and adequate accommodation test.
- Sponsorship. Check if the enterprise or individual meet that requirement.

Checking visa requirements are key, as most of the UKVI website does not contain the full information. The reason is simple, its not possible to place everyone's circumstances in one place.

Once you have applied and attended the visa centre, you will need to make all the right documents and legal cover letter is inserted.

How to prepare for the submission.

Once you have checked that all the requirements for the visa had been met, you need to use the UKVI generated checklist as well as other additional evidences and information to support the visa application.

Is it important to write a cover letter? Yes, this helps Officials to look at the evidences presented and how the requirements have been met.

Does my sponsor need to write their own statement? Absolutely, this is a key document and ownership of their sponsorship.

Evidences play a critical pathway to a successful visa application. Ensure you put together the right information and evidences.
